

ABSTRACT

A pixel-based electronic display comprising a plurality of pixels, the pixels being dots of light emitting diode material. The dots are formed into the segments of a numeric display to make a low power flexible display suitable for use in smart cards. Also disclosed is a smart card having such a display as well as a pressure sensitive input arrangement and a thin flexible battery, and a method of manufacture of the display.